The Advanced Training Program for Young Diplomatic Talents from One Belt One Road Initiative Countries

Enrollment

Organizer

The program is sponsored by Shanghai Municipal Education Commission and is organized by School of International Relations and Public Affairs (SIRPA), Fudan University.

Program Introduction

The program is a major supporting activity of the Shanghai Committee and Shanghai municipal government for the implementation of China's Go Out Policy. Themed on "Consensus, Common Prosperity and Sharing", the Advanced Training Program for Young Diplomatic Talents from One Belt One Road (OBOR) Initiative Countries aims to build a platform for young diplomatic talents from OBOR countries to cooperate, study and achieve mutual development. The program tells the story of political, economic, social, cultural and ecological enhancements in China, promotes the understanding of and the interest in China's new diplomatic strategy, the One Belt One Road Initiatives and regional cooperation and governance reforms so that the young diplomatic talents are able to furtherly understand the strategic positioning of Shanghai and China in globalization and achieve the consensus on the public diplomacy of OBOR Initiative countries.

Curriculum Introduction

The curriculum comprises seven modules and 18 topics including the Reform and Development of China's Political System, China's Economic Transformation, Development and Innovation-driven Strategy, The Modernization of China's Social Governance System, Chinese Cultural Inheritance and Modernization, China's New Diplomatic Strategy, National Conditions Observation and Regional Cooperation and Mutual Development of OBOR Countries. Seminars, group discussions and field trips will be organized for the young diplomatic talents. Leading experts, senior diplomats and practical specialists will be invited to the English taught program.
